Who knew that grinding rust from the bottoms of grip trucks would prove to be a fortuitous start to Shawn Sundby's film career? The subsequent on-set education and mentorship from several amazing professionals provided the real world skill set needed to create powerful images. Shawn's four-year stint in stop motion animation, including Laika (Will Vinton Studios) continues to influence his live action work through thoughtful planning, inventive shot design, and shooting for post effects. Shawn's love of lighting and creating distinctive looks can be seen in all his work. He started in commercials, in diverse genres and has shot for many Fortune 500 companies including Nike, Intel, HP, 3M and Proctor & Gamble. Moving from Commercials to long form in Television and Features is Shawn's new passion. A move from Portland, Oregon to Philadelphia continued to open those doors where he is currently Camera Operator on Warner Bros. Television's Max limited series Task starring Mark Ruffalo.
